After you apply

Communicating with you

After you have successfully submitted your application online, you will receive an email confirming your application and we will send you important updates and outstanding documents requests. You can also contact us with any questions you may have about your application. (Tel. 2910 7645 / pg.cad@hkuspace.hku.hk)

What happens next

-

Portfolio and interview advice

All applicants will be expected to submit an electronic portfolio as part of their application (maximum 20 images, in one PDF upload). The portfolio should be conceptual and research based, and must show your thinking and making process and a curious nature to explore, test and experiment.

It should include a maximum of six projects with supporting material and be clearly annotated and organised. You can include reports, reviews, essays, creative projects, etc. Also include any other examples that indicate your personal areas of interest in the field of design management and cultures.

The selected work will depend on your field of expertise (design, or other) and can cover examples from your most recent commercial or academic activity supported with documents showing your working processes and research.

Applicants with a background in design should include:

- Examples of visual work
- Links to cross platform moving image work if appropriate
- Developmental research material
- Samples of written work

Applicants from all other backgrounds should include:

- (In your CV) descriptions of any professional projects
- Documentation of work where possible including reports, presentations or research projects for which you have been responsible

How we notify you of the outcome of your application

Applicants are usually interviewed by the course team before a place can be offered. Interviews will take place via Skype / ZOOM / telephone.