About the University & Partnership

The University of London is one of the world's leading universities, internationally recognised for its high academic standards. This reputation is based on the outstanding teaching and research of 17 Member Institutions. The University of London is the world's oldest provider of degrees through distance and flexible learning. Since Queen Victoria awarded the University of London its Royal Charter in 1858, the study programmes have been accessible to students all over the world. Today, the University has more than 45,000 students in over 190 countries, studying on 100-plus degrees, diplomas and certificates. The University's alumni include many people who have shaped the world we live in, including leaders of business and industry, scientists and politicians. Six past students have won Nobel Prizes, including Derek Walcott, Charles Kao and Nelson Mandela.

Queen Mary, a member of the prestigious University of London, was ranked in the world's top 25 institutions by Times Higher Education 2022 for international outlook. This was based on the proportion of international staff and students, citations and internationally co-authored papers. Queen Mary also places a high priority on the integration of its teaching and research. This ensures that your MBA study materials are informed by the latest developments in the industry and are fully relevant to your needs.

As part of the University of London's 150th Anniversary celebrations in 2008, the University of London made special awards to six institutions worldwide in recognition of their contributions and efforts as partners. HKU SPACE was proud to be chosen as one of the six and the only one in Hong Kong. This sustained commitment continues at HKU SPACE, which became a Recognised Teaching Centre of the University of London in August 2018 under its revised quality regime demonstrating the commitment to quality provision at HKU SPACE.

Accreditation & Recognition of Prior Learning

The Global MBA is recognised by major industry bodies, providing you with a wealth of resources and opportunities that will support your professional development. All Global MBA students receive CMI (Chartered Management Institute) membership. Those who study optional modules in accountancy will also receive membership of CIMA (Chartered Institute of Management Accountants).

Recognition of prior learning is where we accept a qualification in place of one (or more) modules of the Global MBA, so you don't need to take them as part of your degree. If your prior learning is recognised, you could complete the MBA more quickly by studying fewer modules. There are certain qualifications for which we recognize prior learning for exemptions automatically, such as ACCA, CIMA, CFA and CIM. Some qualifications are recognised for up to five modules, which is a significant portion of the programme.

If you believe a qualification you hold reflects similar learning outcomes to Global MBA modules, such as postgraduate diploma qualification awarded by HKU SPACE, you can apply for this to be recognised.
